

Professor Alan Bogg
BCL, MA, DPhil

Professor in Law

Area of research

Professor of Labour Law

Office L108
Wills Memorial Building,
Queens Road, Clifton BS8 1RJ
(See a map)

+44 (0) 117 954 5374
alan.bogg@bristol.ac.uk

Summary

Alan joined the Bristol Law School in 2017 as Professor of Labour Law. Previously he was Professor of Labour Law in the University of Oxford and a fellow of Hertford College, Oxford. He has a broad teaching and research interest in the general fields of labour, employment and work laws. He is interested in exploring these areas from philosophical, doctrinal and comparative perspectives. His recent work has used political philosophy to explore problems in the regulation of work. He is also interested in the worker-protective aspects of common law reasoning. His current research projects are examining freedom of association; common law fundamental rights; the role of criminalisation in work relations; and the future of the social democratic constitution.

His monograph, The Democratic Aspects of Trade Union Recognition, was awarded the Peter Birks Prize for Outstanding Legal Scholarship in 2010. In 2014, he was awarded the Philip Leverhulme Prize for Law, in recognition of his international profile and achievements as a scholar of labour law. His work has been cited in the United Kingdom Supreme Court (on sham contracts and the illegality doctrine), the Supreme Court of Canada (on the constitutional right to collective bargaining), and the European Court of Justice (on working time and paid annual leave). He is on the editorial committees of the Oxford Journal of Legal Studies and the International Journal of Comparative Labour Law and Industrial Relations. He is also a general editor of the OUP Oxford Monographs in Labour Law series. He is a member of the executive committee of the Institute of Employment Rights, and an emeritus fellow of Hertford College, Oxford. He would be very happy to supervise research students in his broad areas of intellectual interest.

Biography

Alan joined the Bristol Law School in 2017 as Professor of Labour Law. Previously he was Professor of Labour Law in the University of Oxford and a fellow of Hertford College, Oxford. He has a broad teaching and research interest in the general fields of labour, employment and work laws. He is interested in exploring these areas from philosophical, doctrinal and comparative perspectives. His recent work has used political philosophy to explore problems in the regulation of work. He is also interested in the worker-protective aspects of common law reasoning. His current research projects are examining freedom of association; common law fundamental rights; the role of criminalisation in work relations; and the future of the social democratic constitution.

His monograph, The Democratic Aspects of Trade Union Recognition, was awarded the Peter Birks Prize for Outstanding Legal Scholarship in 2010. In 2014, he was awarded the Philip Leverhulme Prize for Law, in recognition of his international profile and achievements as a scholar of labour law. His work has been cited in the United Kingdom Supreme Court (on sham contracts and the illegality doctrine), the Supreme Court of Canada (on the constitutional right to collective bargaining), and the European Court of Justice (on working time and paid annual leave). He is on the editorial committees of the Oxford Journal of Legal Studies and the International Journal of Comparative Labour Law and Industrial Relations. He is also a general editor of the OUP Oxford Monographs in Labour Law series. He is a member of the executive committee of the Institute of Employment Rights, and an emeritus fellow of Hertford College, Oxford. He would be very happy to supervise research students in his broad areas of intellectual interest.

Memberships

Organisations

University of Bristol Law School

Staff role

- Academic Staff

Recent publications

- Ford, M & Bogg, A, 2019, 'Between Statute and Contract: Who is a Worker?'. Law Quarterly Review, vol 135., pp. 347-353
- Bogg, A, 2019, 'Taken for a Ride: Workers in the Gig Economy'. Law Quarterly Review, vol 135., pp. 219-226
- Bogg, A, 2019, 'The Constitution of Capabilities: The Case of Freedom of Association'. in: Brian Langille (eds) The Capability Approach to Labour Law. Oxford University Press, Oxford, pp. 241-267
- Bogg, A & Freedland, M, 2019, 'Labour Law in the Age of Populism: Towards Sustainable Democratic Engagement'. in: Julia Lopez Lopez (eds) Collective Bargaining and Collective Action: Labour Agency and Governance in the 21st Century?. Hart Publishing, pp. 15-39
- Bogg, A, 2019, 'Book Review - Escaping Labour Law's Matrix: Governance by Numbers: The Making of a Legal Model of Allegiance, Alain Supiot, \(Saskia Brown trans., Bloomsbury, 2017, 336 pp\)'. Comparative Labor Law and Policy Journal., pp. 101-115
- Bales, K, Bogg, A & Novitz, T, 2018, '"Voice" and "Choice" in Modern Working Practices: Problems with the Taylor Review'. Industrial Law Journal, vol 47., pp. 46-75
- Medland, L, Anderson, B, Bales, K, Bogg, A, Novitz, T, Davidson, JO, Pitts, FH & Turnbull, P, 2018, 'The 'future' of work? A call for the recognition of continuities in challenges for conceptualising work and its regulation'. School of Law, University of Bristol
- Bogg, A, 2018, 'Illegality in Labour Law after Patel v Mirza: Retrenchment and Restraint'. in: Alan Bogg, Sarah Green (eds) Illegality after Patel v Mirza. Hart Publishing, pp. 255-287
- Bogg, A & Estlund, C, 2018, 'The Right to Strike and Contestatory Citizenship'. in: Hugh Collins, Gillian Lester, Virginia Mantouvalou (eds) Philosophical Foundations of Employment Law. Oxford University Press
- Bogg, A & Dukes, R, 2018, '[Erratum: Article 11 ECHR and the right to collective Bargaining: Pharmacists' defence association Union v Boots Management Services Ltd \[Industrial Law Journal, 47, 1, \(2018\)\] DOI: 10.1093/indlaw/dwx012](#)'. Industrial Law Journal, vol 47., pp. 168

View complete publications list in the University of Bristol publications system